

What do we do?

This programme is dedicated to the study of the literatures and cultures of the British Isles (England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales) and beyond (Australia, New Zealand and anglophone Africa and Asia).

Students investigate texts and contexts as well as their interaction from a wide range of methodological perspectives. Apart from introducing you to a canon of literary landmarks by key authors, our programme also incorporates courses on popular cultural phenomena and media.

What do you gain?

In addition to training your ability to analyse sources from the whole spectrum of cultural expression, our experienced faculty aim to develop your expertise in writing and talking about them. The skills acquired in this programme will equip you with essential skills to qualify you for a wide range of careers in both the public and the private sectors (e.g., public relations, journalism, trade and business, cultural heritage and intercultural communication).
